

Considerations When Selecting Your Transfer Orientation Format

We want you to select the format of Ram Orientation that best meets your needs. No matter which format or session you choose, you will have access to the required Orientation modules, resources, and course registration.

Here are some things to consider when making your selection:

Health

On-Campus sessions of Ram Orientation will have both indoor and outdoor components. Colorado State University's COVID guidelines can be found at <https://covid.colostate.edu/>. Ram Orientation will operate in compliance with all CSU and Larimer County COVID guidelines and regulations.

Travel

If you have concerns or are unable to travel to Fort Collins during the summer, you may want to consider selecting Online Ram Orientation.

Schedule

On-Campus sessions of Ram Orientation for Transfer Students will be one day long. If you select an On-Campus session, you will need to plan to be available for the entirety of that session. If you choose to register for On-Campus Ram Orientation for Transfer Students, your academic advising and course registration session will take place on the day of your session. If you choose to participate in Online Ram Orientation, you will be responsible for scheduling your own advising and course registration with your Academic Advisor/Academic Success Coordinator (ASC) at a time that works with your schedule.

If you have any questions or need help deciding which format is best for you, contact Orientation and Transition Programs at orientation@colostate.edu or 970-491-4184.
